Dance leotards, dresses and separates fit different than your everyday clothing. As an athlete you need something that hugs your body but does not impede your movements. Just For Kix's dance costumes are made from matte tricots, stretch velvets, tactel lycras, and slinky fabrics that will have much more stretch than everyday clothing. In order to feel confident and comfortable while performing, it is important that you measure carefully in order to determine what size will be your best fit. Therefore, when you are measuring for fit it is very important that you wear form fitting clothing like a leotard and stand tall but relaxed with feet together and arms at your side. Doing so will help your measurements be more accurate and help insure a proper fit. The measuring tape should be taut, without any slack, but should not be constricting or compressing the body when talking these measurements. Measure accurately and honestly. It's about how well the garment looks and fits on you. If you order by measurements you wish you were or hope to be, your garments will not fit properly. Measuring over a pair of jeans can distort the hips and the torso girth dramatically.

Chest/Bust Circumference: Measure around the fullest part of the chest/bust circumference, usually about 1" below the armhole, making certain that the tape measure remains parallel around the body.

Waist Circumference: The waist measurement is taken at the true waist, not where the waistband of pants usually hits. The easiest way to find the true waist is to stand straight, and bend to the side. Once you find the waist point, straighten and measure around your body for your waist circumference keeping the tape measure parallel to the floor.

Hip Circumference: The hip measurement is taken around the fullest part of the hip and across the buttocks. Keep your legs and feet together. Again, it is very important to keep the tape measure parallel while measuring around the body.

Torso Girth (Circumference): Torso girth is the circumference of the body torso. Place the tape measure at the highest point of the shoulder at the neck base. The measuring tape should drop down the body over the apex of the bust, down between the legs and back up over the of the body backside returning to the shoulder. Pull the tape measure so that there is no slack, but again not tight enough to constrict or compress the body.

Inseam Length: Inseam length is helpful when determining sizing for pants and leggings. This measurement is most accurate when the dancer is measured by another person, as the body being measured must be standing straight with the legs together, feet about 1" apart. Place the tape measure at the high point of the inner leg at the crotch and measure down to the floor keeping the tape measure straight along the inner leg.
